A Busy Year for SDA

In 2016, SDA focused on refreshing the infrastructure of the organization, member experience and exciting programming content. According to plan, capacity building funds were to be tapped to accomplish initiatives not in normal operational budgets, such as a new website and customer relations management system. SDA’s Strategic Plan for 2016-2018 included five goals: Programming & Engagement; Marketing & Branding; Diversifying Revenue Streams; Operations & Administration; and Board Leadership. Here are 2016 highlights tied to these goals.

PROGRAMMING & ENGAGEMENT

Surface Design Journal
• Publication of 4 quarterly Journals in print and digital format.
• Journal themes included Transgressing Traditions, The Body Embellished, Mending, and the winter Annual International Exhibition in Print, Crafting Community.
• The Annual International Exhibition in Print, Crafting Community, juried by Mark Newport, head of fibers at Cranbrook Academy of Art, and Surface Design Journal Editor Marci Rae McDade, received 412 entries from 12 countries and 42 states in the US. Newport and McDade selected 40 artists in honor of SDA’s upcoming 40th Anniversary, representing Japan, Austria, Finland, UK, The Netherlands and seventeen states in the US.
• Restructuring of the editorial team for more robust support and administration, including the creation of the Editorial Assistant.
• Exploratory research into creating a permanent, searchable, digital archive of the Surface Design Journal archive.
